Saves Energy Too!

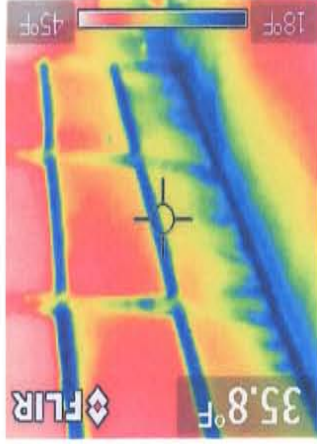

In January of 2013, we had an energy engineer come to Montie's garage and test the energy savings of installing a door seal on his heated garage.

Montie had a gap on the left side of his door the size of this:

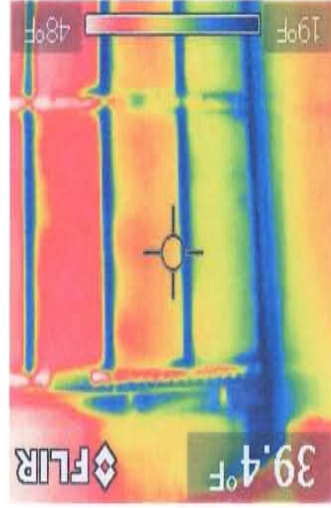

What we found?

Thermal picture of door before SnirtStopper: average temperature of entire door was 35.8 degrees. Notice the blue color - this is cold air seeping under the door.

Thermal picture of door after SnirtStopper: average temperature of entire door warmed to 39.4 degrees in a period of 35 minutes.

An increase of almost 4 degrees!

Less cold air seeping under the door means a warmer garage and less energy wasted. Less blue means more energy savings!

Energy Efficiency Calculations

In Montie's situation, with a 16 foot door, heating his garage with electric heat to a temperature of 45 degrees in the winter.

He Saved $26.67 per year based on 12cents per kwh.

If your door has bigger gaps than what Montie had, you will experience even greater energy savings.

Your SnirtStopper could pay for itself in 1 to 2 seasons!
